THE SAD WORK OF A COSTLY DOG.

HE LOSES A RAT AND BITES HIS TWO OWNERS AND A STRANGER IN A TERRIBLE MANNER.
Thomas O'Reilly and Patrick Houlihan keep a liquor ere at No. 1,075 First-ave., and until yesterday they owned a thoroughbred bull terrier which they valued at $500. Houliban found a rat in a frap in the rear of the liquor store yesterday morning, and he took the trap out on the sidewalk to give an exhibition. O'Reilly led out the dog, and a crowd collected to see the rat-catching. When the trap was opened the rat darted away. A stranger in the crowd kicked the rat just as the terrier was about to seize it. Probably the dog took offence at the kick, as its teeth were fastened almost instantly in the man's leg. Blood flowed freely from the wound in his leg.

One taste of blood seemed to make the dog crazy. and it sprang at O'Reilly's throat. O'Reilly put up his hands and the dog's teeth tore some flesh from his wrist. Just then Houlihan slipped on the wet side-walk and fell face downward beside the angry brute. The terrier attacked him instantly, biting him on the arms and thigh. O'Reilly seized the dog's collar, but arms and thigh. O'Reilly seized the dog's collar, but he also slipped and fell. The ferocious beast made another attempt to get at O'Reilly's throat and nearly succeeded. It tugged at his arms and legs, snacling viciously at every bite.

Policeman Buckley, of the Twenty-third Precinct, ran to the place of the encounter. He drew his revolver, and placing its muzzle close against the dog's body, he fired five shots in rapid succession. The dog still growled and showed fight. The policeman borrowed revolvers and fired eight more shots into the brute before he succeeded in killing it.

The opinion of the Corporation Counsel sustaining the Mayor's view of the law accompanied the message. The Mayor says that he has requested the Police Commissioners to prevent interference with existing stands until time has been given for the settlement of the question.

AMMON PRESENTS HIS SIDE OF THE CASE EXPLAINING WHAT WAS DONE WITH MISS

who is charged by Emfly S. Weed with the larceny of five $1,000 bonds, told his side of the story yesterday.

When, in March last, Edwin A. Weed went into partnership with me, under the firm style of R. A. Ammon & Co., he was to furnish as working capital for the house 25,000, and, in addition, to pay me a bonus of $2,500. He did not have the money himself, so he secured from his brother, Theodore Weed, the use of the bonds belonging to Miss Weed. The bonds were deposited with the Chase National Bank as collateral on a call loan of $5,000 to that firm of R. A. Ammon & Co., consisting of myself and Edwin A. Weed. Then, during my absence in California, and without my permission, F. A. Weed used firm checks to pay of $4,000 of the loan, and received from the bank four of the bonds without my knowledge. Edwin A. Weed was unable to pay me the bonus of $2,500 himself, so he paid to my personal account $2,500 out of the $5,000 loan. For this amount E. A. Weed gave Thomas Weed a note, only "receipt" they ever got from me.

Now, when I returned from California during the summer, before my second tilp. I heard of the mas being redeemed, and refused to settle on any such basis, because they had been redeemed with firm money. E. A. Weed met me and Mr. Rankine, my lawyer, with a view to having the bonds redeposited, but during the conversation, while Rankine and I had our backs turned, Weed disappeared, and I did not see him again until in the court-room the other day. I stopped him from redeeming the last bond, however, and here is an affidavit from the cashier of the Chass National Bank certifying that the bond is still safe in their vanits. I don't see how, therefore, I can have stelen it. Weed, during the month he was in the firm drew out over $1,200, as this check-book shows, and other sums hesides. other sums hesides.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS OF EVELYN COLLEGE, Princeton, Sept. 18 (Special).-Evelyn College, an institution for the higher education of women, will formally enter upon the second year of its existence o-morrow. The number of applications for entrance already received gives assurance that the list of matriculated students this year will considerably surpass that of last, and notwithstanding the fact that the curriculum of Evelyn is essentially the same as that of Princeton University itself changes have been deemed advisable in strengthening one or two of the departments, notably the French department, which will be under the personal supervision of Mme. Heldar, of Paris. Modern languages are made a specialty in the course and even the resident supils are required to remain each day after turcheon and re-late a French anecdote before quitting the recitation room. The Musical department will be directed by two musicians of New-York City, A. R. Parsons and Francis Korbay. The instructor in art has not been chosen definitely, though in all probability he will be the same contleman who instructs the Sketch Club of the Princeton College Art School. The college building was the former home of Professor Marquand, of Princeton Art School. It is secluded in a beautiful grove.

TWO CLEVER ROBBERS ABRESTED. Thou other hand John Prendeville were arrested several days ago by Detectives O'Brien and McCauley. They were believed to be the persons who had been carrying out a systematic plan of sobberies with excellent success for several months. When arrested they indignantly protested against what they termed the outrageous conduct of the police, but when McAuliffe was recognized by one of the persons who had been robbed, he confessed. He and Prendeville have committed from thirty to forty robbenies during the last few months. Their plan was a clever one; the first requisite was to obtain the name of the person whom it was intended to rob; then, in the disguise of workmen, with a kit of tools, they would call at the house and inform the servant that the owner or tenant had sent them to repair the roof or the plumbing work. When a favorable moment came one of the men would make a tour through the sleeping rooms and pick up whatever things of value were lying around. The value of the property stolen is estimated at £9,000. The prisoners will be taken to Jefferson Market Court this morning.

PROBABLY FATAL FIGHT ABOUT DRINK MONEY. There was a drunken row early yesterday morning in the room of William English, on the second floor of the house, No. 9 Mouroe-st., and when the police stoppe the fight, one man was sent to a hospital with a supposed fatal injury. William Garvey and Mary Barrett, who up," because he refused to give any more money for the beer. They began to beat him, and English drew a knife and siabled Mary Barrett. Then he clubbed Garvey on the head and fractured his skull. English was taken to the Essex Market Court and held to await the result of Garvey's injury.

Cocoa, from which the excess of Oil has been removed. It has three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowpoot or Sugar, and is therefore far more economical, costing less than one cent a cap. It is delictous, notifishing, strengthening, easily digested, and admirably adapted for invalids as well as for persons in health.

It will grace almost any spot-reception room, sitting room or music room. It combines beauty and comfort. The lines are finely proportioned.

It is a favorito chair with ladies. They admire its graceful form and the comfort of its cushioned seat and firm back. Inclined at just the proper angle.

It takes little space and is light, but strong as iron. It is altogether just the sort of chair to delight a fastidious tasts. DeGRAAF & TAYLOR,
